Clint Fischer is a South Dakota attorney with a focus on family farm operations. He assists clients with farm business solutions, succession planning, and estate planning. With roots on the family farm and ten years of managing various ag retail businesses, Clint believes that to preserve family farm legacies, two things are essential: 1) operations must be well-managed, financially viable, and attractive business; and 2) operations must have a written transition plan. Clint is also the founder of Braintrust Ag, an online peer group where business-minded ag people connect and share tools to build and transition farm operations.
